sorbed the market turnel firmer on covering.

Reports that a cold wave was likely to follow the raims in the Southwest probably helped to steady the market, and there was also some builtsh talk as to export possibilities based on the evacuation of the Belgian coast with reference to U-boat activity and the use of Dutch tonnage. It seeined also that the early decline to 30 cents for December had brought in a considerable trade demand, but the bulk of support came from shorts and the market soon turned quiet. Later offerings increased on rumors that private returns indicated a ginning of 7,060,000 bales to October 18, and the market broke sharply in the late trading with the close at the lowest level of the day.

The trade buying, which has been a feature on declines to about the 30 cent level recently, was not in evidence on the afternoon break, leading to an impression that the demand to fix prices had been pretty well supplied. This encouraged the late selling, but the main factors seemed to be the less favorable view of peace prospects and the talk of heavy ginning.
